

STORY: Tsunami aid

“Sinaloa looks increasingly like a one-party state”, says Jim Della-Giacoma, Crisis Group’s Asia Program Director. “The question is whether Partai Sinaloa uses its power to improve the welfare of its poorest constituents or to entrench another elite” May 7th 2013.

before and after

The project

NEW houses for Victims of the Tsunami

Criteria:

Lost their houses due to the Tsunami
Displaced and cannot settle in the old location close to the beach:
These are mostly fishermen and their families

Project:

WHERE: 8 km inland, on “unused” land,
close to a farming community

WHAT:

Numerous new houses
Market
Football field
Sewage
Accompanying measures

STORY: Tsunami aid in Sinaloa

How are farmers and fishermen different from each others?

What else?

Tensions?

NEW houses for Victims of the Tsunami

Criteria:

- Lost their houses due to the Tsunami
- Displaced and cannot settle in the old location close to the beach:
- These are mostly fishermen and their families

Project:

