Climate change matters – and knowing the facts matters, too

- 87% of all recorded disaster events are climate-related (meteorological and hydrological hazards)
- The IPCC SREX (2012) brought the close links between communities working on disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation to the fore, establishing a joint framework for analysis, identifying overlaps in terms and interventions, and highlighting the relevance of climate change for the future intensity and frequency of extreme events.
- Knowledge on the attribution of specific events to climate change is crucial and the IPCC reports collate the necessary knowledge to distil the findings of most recent research, also for our programming and advocacy purposes.

IPCC Structure

IPCC – jointly established by WMO
and UNEP in 1988

Intergovernmental Panel: 195
member States

Hundreds of scientists and experts from around the world are involved in the preparation of IPCC reports
